Her failure to appear on Wednesday last made it necessary to postpone the case until to-day. It is acknewledged by the prosecutor that he depends upon the testimony of Meyers and his wife to convict Parks. Prosecutor Ivins began the case to-day by staring that he would show by the people's witnesses that Parks was well acquainted with Meyers in New York, and that they were jointly interested in running a gambling-house at 45 West Thirty-first street in that city. This was the place exposed by "The Evening World" last Jone.

Mr. Ivins also promised to prove that furniture shipped from New York and set up in the Asbury house, including a roulette wheel and other gambling appliances, was all the property of Alderman Parks. Before Meyer, who was the first witness, was called he formally withdrew his former piea of not guilty and entered the plea of non vuit.

Meyers, when he took the stand, swore that he came to Asbury Park with his wife and Mrs. Lyman on June 27 last, and that the furniture arrived the same day. Among the furniture was a black box which Meyers said he learned later contained a roulette wheel. The black box, he said, was the property of Alderman Parks, and it was faken to the stable in the rear of the house by order of Parks. The wheel and other gambling paraphernalia were set up in an upper room in the stable after the floors had been covered with one of the Alderman's carpets.

Meyers swore that there was, besides the roulette wheel, a c-d and black layout, a lot of high chairs, such as are used in gambling houses, and a trunk full of chips and car is. The day after the gambling furniture was set up in the stable, Meyers said business was started up at cnce and continued until about Aug. 16. When the witness was sarked to name some of the persons who had played in the house, he said he remembered that Joseph Patterston, Parks piechel, colon me some of the persons who had played in the house, he said he remembered that Joseph Patterston, Parker Lakis, John McCray and William Spell, residents of As

The prosecution's next witness was Joseph Patterson, brother of Alderman Parks, ir is counsel. Patterson said he went to the Fifth avenue house one night with two friends and lost $53 playing roulette. Meyers and Lyman were rolling the ball and banking a poker game in another room. The witness said he didn't see Parks about. On the next day Patterson said he returned to the house with three lawyers to get his money back. This statement seemed to excite the ire of the presiding Judge, J. Clarence Conover, who asked the witness to repeat it.

Board of Street Openings to Abolish the Mott Haven Nuisance.

At the meeting of the Board of Street Opening and Improvement to-day an opinion from Corporation Counsel Clark was read, saying that the Board had the right to fill in the Mott Haven Canal.

A resolution was then passed to abolish the canal from One Hundred and Thirty-fifth to One Hundred and Forty-fourth streets and lay out a new street on the line of the canal, bounded by One Hundred and Forty-fourth streets and Rider and Rairoad avenues.

The work will be done by the Commissioner of Street Improvements of the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth wards. A large crowd of residents of the Annexed District was in the Mayor's office when the resolution was passed. Nearly all of them favored the filling in of the canal. A few wanted to spare that part of the canal below One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street, but the Mayor said that the whole thing would have to go, as it was a menace to the public health. Commissioner Haffen wanted the Board to approve his plans for the extension of thirty-five streets in the Annexed District.
